

Shirley A. Conibear, MD, MPH, FACPM
Vice President, The LARC Foundation
Family Medicine and Occupational Medicine

Dr. Conibear is board certified physician in Family Medicine and Occupational Medicine. As a preventive medicine physician, she practices in the Chicago, Illinois area. She received her medical degree from University of Illinois College of Medicine at Chicago and has been in practice for more than 35 years. She completed her residency at Cook County Hospital in Family Practice and Occupational Medicine.

She obtained a Master's in Public Health from the University of Illinois School of Public Health. She has published numerous articles as a senior scientist and an associate professor of occupational medicine for many years with a focus on safety, health, and community health.

The LARC Foundation was established in Chicago, Illinois in 2014. Today it is recognized as a charitable Private Operating Foundation (i.e., the LARC Foundation). It is approved as a charitable, education and scientific organization (under section 501(c)(3)) of by the Internal Revenue Service code. As such the LARC Foundation pursues a variety of charitable activities and programs in both the public and private sectors. The Foundation also supports charitable activities by making grants, to organizations or to individuals for research, scientific and educational purposes consistent with its mission and priorities.

Dr. Conibear's past appointments include serving as the Chief Medical Officer for the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, Epidemiologist for Argonne National Laboratory, and consultant to the Illinois Department of Public Health. She has served on numerous advisory committees.

She is a member American Association for the Advancement of Science, Fellow of the American College of Preventative Medicine, American Public Health Association, and American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene.

###